Comments:

Wringing the last bit of water out of California to meet "new water" goals, does not allow for contingencies and dry years. Whether its autos, farms, any endeavor when used to the max, invites failure due to unforeseen events. If water "to the max" is the plan - the public should be told ~~[illegible]~~. My advice to address this is to make positive statements concerning storage progress ie. statesman like positions, that emphasize reality and puts political pressure into logical perspective.
