This presentation summarizes two economic reports provided for the Delta Vision process. Economic efficiency of water use and allocation in California and a range of policies that might increase efficiency are discussed in the first report. Water rights, pricing, transfers, conservation and new water supply strategies are addressed. The second report develops a finance strategy for Delta Vision programs. A flexible finance strategy is provided. Expanded participation through carbon offset markets, conservation banking and other sources is recommended.

The reports are available for review at:
